March 17th. 1860,

Dear Henry, as I want to send this book home I thought I would write a few lines as I have not got time to write a letter now. We are all a little below Vicksburg bend on the Mississippi side of the river. We will march away to day but I can't tell where. I will write as soon as we stop. You must not be uneasy. God will take care of me. I am tolerable well.

As good bye we can hear the cannon roar all the time day and night.
Vis. Bobury will turn tall, I think

David B. Johnson
