Worked all the day. Cutting and carrying wood for East Hall. Did not get through my chores until after eight o'clock in the evening, after which I went to the city and bought some oil-cloths.
December 30, 1866.

Attended Prof. McMillan's class in S-I today; listened to a very excellent sermon by Prof. Whipple this A. M. Ipsi. Psalms LXX, 5, 10, 11, 12 verses.

Monday, 31

Have been at work all day, cutting and carrying wood for the ladies in East Hall. Our Society met and adjourned, but I did not meet with them. After finishing my chores I got ready and missed over to Mr. Winslow's, our State School Superintendent, as he had invited all the States New Year's Eve, as I did not find the lady there I expected, Miss Smith, and back to the College and got here and Miss Viola Watkins, a junior, got back to the College just ten O'clock.

dictation, I issued my General Order No. 2567, suppressing said proceedings. Believing Laddie too frail to guard their own virtue without my all-wise and all-powerful hand, and believing that all men are in their passions like unto myself, and the good name of "My College" must be carefully protected. Therefore, I, the Faculty of Hillside College, do hereby proclaim and make known that henceforth all Prayer Meetings and Sunday Schools shall be attended by one sex only, and that all assemblies of students or citizens, held in "My COLLEGE" for the purpose of worshiping God, or otherwise shall be composed of only gentlemen or ladies, except when provided with complementary passes bearing my name, for I am the door of me ye shall enterin.

REV. H. E. WHIPPLE,
Professor of Oratory in Hillsdale College, Mich.,

Elocutionary Entertainments

ON

THE DIVINE ART OF READING

Will be illustrated by selections from the great Poets and Orators, whose productions, when properly rendered, never fail to thrill the hearer.

It will be shown how much more impressive the reading of the Scriptures and Hymns may be made in Public and Social Worship than is too commonly the case.

As, also, the amusing may be made conducive to improvement, the exercises will be varied with wit, humor and sentiment.

Professor W. hopes to impress the community with the immense value of this superior accomplishment for public and private life, furnishing, as it may, all the profit and pleasure of the stage, without any of its demoralizing tendencies.

That all ages and conditions may participate in the enjoyments of the intellectual feast, the terms of admission are fixed at a low rate, barely sufficient to meet expenses.

$ TICKETS CENTS.

"We would rather have a child, even of the other sex, return to us from school a first-rate reader, than a first-rate performer upon the piano forte."

[North American Review.

"It is, indeed, a most intellectual accomplishment."

[North American Review.

"There is an amusement, having an affinity to the drama, which might be usefully introduced among us—I mean Elocution."—Dr. Channing.
